

Social Media and Website Disclaimer

HIV/AIDS RESOURCES AND COMMUNITY HEALTH SOCIAL MEDIA AND WEBSITE DISCLAIMER

HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health does its best to provide useful resources and engage in relevant dialogue on the web and through social media. However, HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health cannot be held responsible for the appropriateness of external content that is accessed or promoted through HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health website or social media tools.

HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health is not responsible for the content of its Twitter followers or of those that we are following. HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health makes a reasonable best effort to follow feeds of individuals or entities that provide information about HIV and AIDS and related issues and/or are supporters of the organization. Due to the dynamic nature of social media tools like Twitter, HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health cannot guarantee the appropriateness of the content of its followers or of those that we follow.

HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health provide links on its website to other places on the web. HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health makes a reasonable effort to ensure that these links to lead to sources of credible information; however, given the changing nature of the internet, HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health cannot be held responsible for links that lead to misinformation or inappropriate content.

HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health recommends that no medical treatment decision be based exclusively on the information appearing in this website or that is promoted through any of HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health's social media tools, including Facebook, Twitter or You Tube. HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health assumes no responsibility for outcomes which may be construed to be the result of decisions about medical treatment based on information contained in HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health website or that is promoted through any of HIV/AIDS Resources and Community Health social media tools, including Facebook, Twitter or You Tube.